

Who we are

Ayr Festival respects the privacy of our users and is committed to protecting your privacy. This Privacy Policy is intended to inform you of how your data is processed and for what purposes.

Embedded content from other websites

Articles on this site may include embedded content (e.g. videos, images, articles, etc.). Embedded content from other websites behaves in the exact same way as if the visitor has visited the other website.

These websites may collect data about you, use cookies, embed additional third-party tracking, and monitor your interaction with that embedded content, including tracking your interaction with the embedded content if you have an account and are logged in to that website.

Who we share your data with

We will only use your business data when the law allows us to. Most commonly, we will use your business data in the following circumstances:

Where you have provided your business details and we have your prior consent to use your data (for example, where you have agreed to have your business information listed on this website).

Free listing of your business form. This form only contains business data and no personal data.

Cookies

Our website, <https://www.tamfest.co.uk> uses cookies and other related technologies.

We may use “cookies” to track the patterns of behaviour of visitors to our site. “Cookies” are stored on your browser and the information collected can be used to identify you. You can modify your browser settings to turn cookies off. A cookie is a small file placed on your computer’s hard drive, cookies help analyse web traffic or lets you know when you visit a particular site. Cookies allow web applications to respond to you as an individual and can tailor its operations to your needs, likes and dislikes by gathering and remembering information about your preferences from previous searches. We use traffic log cookies to identify which pages on our website are being used, to help us analyse and improve our website to tailor it to user needs. We only use this information for statistical analysis purposes and then the data is removed from the system. Overall, cookies help us provide you with a better website by enabling us to monitor which pages you find useful and which you do not. A cookie in no way gives us access to your computer or any information about you, other than the data you choose to share with us.

Ayr Festivals: Events Takedown Policy

During Ayr Festivals, either paid or non-paid, there will be times photographs will be taken of the event activities, and of members of the public attending. Every effort will be made to ensure your photographic image is taken with your agreement. Signage will also be in place at the event to notify attendees that photography is taking place.

For more information visit our Events Takedown Policy.
